

Thank you to friend and business owner Tia Taylor Clark and the patrons of Jane of Trades Upscale Resale Shop for their recent collection and donation of paper products. Above, Tia gets some help unloading her car from Faith House resident Terry McNeese.

Upcoming activities

Monday, July 4, Joint dinner at Faith House. Then have some fun with sparklers and an ice cream sundae bar at dusk.

Tuesday, July 5, Gospel Jam at Dairy Queen, leave at 6:30

Thursday, July 7, Signal Mountain Playhouse presents Chitty Chitty Bang Bang!. We'll leave at 6:15. We've got a DVD of the movie, so feel free to watch it before we go and familiarize yourself with the story and the music!

Friday, July 8, Nightfall Concert downtown. We'll leave right after dinner (which may be a bit early). Courtney Reid will open at 7:00 for PJ Morton and the Crusade (a mixture of soul and pop, whose latest album features a song with Steve Wonder!).

Saturday, July 9, Walmart Trip, 9:00 am. AND THEN, we're off to Coolidge Park after dinner for Movies after Dark—this week, it's Minions.

Have you ever noticed that nothing spices up conversation, and certainly speeches, like a well selected quotation? Whether you are discussing the wisdom of the ages or a cute wisecrack on any subject, you can pretty safely find a pointed observation to help prove your point. I have a treasury of witticisms to add some color to life at Hosanna, gut with a small corner in which to write, I have selected just one quote for today on the blessing of getting older. I hope it will bring a smile to your face, while also requiring the habit of truly thinking. Without wasting time, prepare yourselves for a good quote on the blessing of getting older. Different people view age in differing ways. It is Victor Hugo's idea that we will focus on this week. He writes:

Forty is the old age of youth.
Fifty is the youth of old age.

Think about that.
