Below: Susan creates an "eclipse cake" to celebrate the amazing event that took place last week. Look for photos coming up soon.

Different strokes for different folks: two ways to enjoy the lake. Linda enjoys being in the water while Orlando likes to be on the beach.

Today's issue will allow you to recall your youth. I think you remember hearing "pay attention, pay attention to me!" Well, I have a much more heartfelt plea. Almost every day I see a person in need of care and comfort. People in sleeping bags under ridges, people pushing buggies with food and clothes, single women with several children, and lonely old men: the sight brings me to prayer and almost to tears. What can we do? Psalm 41:1 tells us: blessed is he who considers the poor. Now, we may not be able to alleviate the poverty of the many people we meet while on Earth, but we can consider them. Consider, a verb meaning to pay attention to, means showing others we care. We can treat others with courtesy and respect. We can listen with interest to their ideas and stories. We can pray for or with others. Jesus said, It is more blessed to give than to receive. In the end, paying attention pays off, for we find happiness when we give ourselves away. I ask you to please consider the poor and needy.
