

THANK YOU, Loftis Middle School!

Many thanks go to Kim Hixson for spearheading another donation drive at Loftis Middle School. The kids and their families did a great job and Susan came back with a whole SUV filled with paper products, toothpaste, dishwashing liquid and more.

Today's message requires your involvement with no financial cost.

Corner

I need for you to be honest when answering this question: Are you a cloud gazer? What I mean is, do you often, or maybe even sometimes, look intently and direct your eyes on a group of things in the air in awe or because you see some hidden meaning? I fact, isn't it fun to look into the sky and see all kinds of things or designs made by clouds? Well, don't be alarmed. To glare, peer, and even stare in question of something's purpose is actually advantageous. I strongly believe it is important to be creative and curious rather than accepting things without observing their real importance. The Webster's II New College Dictionary defines cloud as "a visible body of fine droplets of water in the atmosphere; a visible airborne mass of steam, smoke or dust." It is noted in discussion of its word history that two modern English words meaning sky meant cloud in earlier times. In Old and Middle English, the term for sky was heaven. So, the use of heaven to be explained as the abode of God and the curiosity of a collection of charged particles is recorded as early as the world itself. So, if you are a cloud gazer, don't be embarrassed. You are in good company
