

Katie: kwalters.hosanna@comcast.net Susan: srdistefano@comcast.net

WEEKLY ACTIVITIES

Monday, January 14, HUMC Solo Ladies are back at Hope House for some food and fun!

Tuesday, January 15, we're off to CABIA, leaving at 5:30, to hear guest speaker Michelle Hecker Davis, executive director of LearningRx, discuss brain training activities that will be fun and helpful for all who attend!

Friday, January 18, The Metro Musicians Community Band will be performing at the North River Civic Center. We'll start loading up at 6:30.

Sherolyn, Tina, and Michael are engrossed in watching "Cats" on TV.

Today's column covers several issues. To begin with, let me emphasize my hope for everyone to remain sincere when wishing a "Happy New Year!" All too often we find ourselves trying to be kind. At least we think so. What I mean is, we need to actually spend 365 days paying attention to someone else's well-being. Interestingly, it resembles our celebration of Christmas. It should be a habit to spend 365 days of every year appreciating and thanking God for His eternal love. So, I'd like to inform you, my readers, how I feel His care can be best received. This accepting process can be fairly easy. It shouldn't be difficult to avoid being critical, negative, judgmental, or upsetting to others. Let's be real honest—we know we should not be choosing what actions or decisions others should be making. Come on. Let God do His job. If you do, being made in His image, you'll become clear as you find yourself making efforts in a positive manner to continue a habit encouraging and uplifting others. I wish you all the best.

ECR

Connor's

Corner

Jason Clark and Ellis have finished the downstairs floor—and it looks great! Ash checks out the materials before heading upstairs for a chat with Carolyn over lunch.

