HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Alice Turnage
Susan DiStefano

Be sure to share birthday wishes with them Friday, Feb. 8!

Today, I'd like for all of us to wake up and face reality. I may not be preaching behind a lectern or podium, but I do always feel we should remember what the Bible instructs us to do in Proverbs 2:1-12. As we all continue to search for irresistible hidden treasure, it hints you will definitely find it! Here is how: As you strive to "understand the fear of the Lord" and also "discover the knowledge of God," the benefits you receive will include direction, a rescue from evil, eternal protection, success in all you do, new wisdom, and finally, true happiness. Let me reiterate: It is in your best interest to read the Bible, ask for His forgiveness and thank God for His many blessings rather than shelling out money every day for Powerball tickets and watching eagerly to see if you win. The reality I hope we all "wake up" to is that rather than making life a series of games and chances, let us remember eternal life is being offered to us all. There is no financial cost. The requirement is to believe in the promises of our lord Jesus Christ.

Busy day!

Last Friday was a busy day. We started out with a really interesting art project with Brooke from the Hart Gallery. Using bits of glass, we created pictures on old window frames. When completed, these pieces will be hung around the property. Stay tuned! After the art project, we headed up to Hope House for a Hot Dog and Tater Tot bar—who knew there were so many possible toppings! Thank you, Shelene, for this great spread!
