Everything's Coming Up Paper Pumpkins in Art Class

I'd like to first thank all of you caring and thoughtful people who have thanked me for "Connor's Corner" with heartfelt comments such as, "Connor, it brightens my day and sometimes my week to read your writing. Keep it up." I am so thankful to be a positive part of others' lives, and as a result, I am going to ask for your help. What I mean is that in my desire to pass on what I feel are meaningful lessons by both word of mouth (sermons and Sunday School) and writing, I'd like to get a real idea of the interest of others. What would you like to read or hear about? Here are some examples. Please let me know your favorites:

- We've had a reason to thank God for over 2000 years.
- Money can't buy the gift of spiritualness.
- Can you give your life to pay for another's wrong?
- We've always been undeserving and unthankful?
- What Jesus did, giving full payment, still stands.
- Prayer - with thanksgiving, provides peace.
- God wants us to avoid: anxiety, fear, repeated frustration, depression, regret, unneeded pressure, hoping for others' approval, and mainly Worrying.

Let's follow His guide. He is on our side.
