

WEEKLY ACTIVITIES

- Mon., Nov. 22: 10:00 a.m. - Tai Chi
2:00 p.m. - Decorating for Thanksgiving Dinner
- Tues., Nov. 23: 10:00 a.m. - Yoga & Stretching
2:00 p.m. - Karaoke
- Wed., Nov. 24: 10:00 a.m. - Chair Dance Yoga
2:00 p.m. - Movie @ AMC Theater: Addams Family 2
- Thu., Nov. 25: 10:00 a.m. - HAPPY THANKSGIVING!!!
(No Daytime Staff on duty)
- Frid., Nov. 26: 10:00 a.m. - Walk-a-Mile

This looks like a job for

Must be a misunderstanding!

Making Santa Ornaments

Strolling On the River!

PICTIONARY!

Fiesta Weekend Dinner

Tai Chi Boogie!

Cards for Carolyn

Thanksgiving Day has officially been recognized as a "national holiday," set apart for giving thanks to God. Why, then, are we obsessed with who is having the bigger and better feast? We actually concern ourselves with who is eating what, when and where, while judging the decisions of others. It's not absurd that some refer to the time as, "Turkey Day." Interestingly, Christmas Day, celebrated by Christians as the anniversary of the birth of Jesus Christ, has become defined by our self-centered desire of gift-giving and the fascination of a Santa Claus-focused celebration. I do feel that we need (for both holidays) to realize Jesus was sent to help us love one another and to be thankful for the chance for eternal life.

I imagine this definition of Christmas:

C Christ H Heavenly-sent R Redemption I Involving
S Savior's T Trustful M Mercy A After S Sinning

I close with these important theme:

In all, let there be known: 'Thanks be to God.'

Connor's

Corner