YES: There are days when I feel like preaching. I think someone needs to hear these awesome thoughts. Wait. I can tell my readers. Okay ... Here are some thoughts I will relate to a church in the future:

If you question how your life is going, and/or how others view you, realize that your fellowship defines you.

I suggest trying to make sure your time isn't spent too much in the wrong direction. We all do need to stop trying to be a large part of this greedy, sinful world. We need to get over the disrespect of the Lord, and get with Jesus.

How hard is it for us to remember: Our wrongs have already been paid for on Mt. Calvary? Jesus' atonement and act of true compassion two thousand years ago still stands today.

Amen
