Beautiful day at Chester Frost Park. Perfect for Frosties!

Making mini chocolate stuffed cakes. Yum!

Although I do feel that having a close relationship with God is important and that using prayer as a means to strengthen it is wise, I also believe it should be very personal. So, don't tell me when or where to go to church or how to pray.

As a result, I wish to provide an appropriate, inclusive prayer that will explain our knowledge of His unending love, keeping us thankful for hope and forgiving mercy. We remain aware of God's willingness to bless us consistently with encouragement, repeated love, and eternal support. His incredible gift of forgiveness is marked primarily by a willingness to remain true to His word as a Provider.

In doing so, we need to understand that He completes work on His time, not ours. Admittedly, things are completed, but not in the manner expected. Interestingly, it seems always just enough to make things work out. So, I suggest we all say:

"Lord, thank you for the grace of always remaining my faithful loving Provider."

Amen.
