Learning a New Game: Ladder Ball, played with "bolas," two balls tied together with rope. Players toss the balls & try to hook them onto a ladder rung. It's harder than it looks!

I want you to pay close attention. The Lord is the first to explain: It is okay to question. Things do happen that are hard to believe and that keep us curious. We all have wondered and questioned ... 'Why?' Interestingly, God has a plan. Isn't it wonderful when He absolutely blesses us when it is least expected? Let me remind you that God is good. His love is encompassing, full-time, genuine, and never leaves. It cannot be traded. Even more impressive is His eternal promise. He is, and will always remain, a close caring and compassionate friend that we have on our long journey. And that, my Hosanna friends, should fill you with happiness. As a result of your trying to remind yourself of His presence and grace all around you all the time, I suggest this Christmas, filled with both anticipation and wonder, that you make a strong attempt to put Christ as the center of your holiday celebration. You will find happiness while pleasing the Lord with true appreciation for His care.
